The Wood Badge Beads of Dinizulu

Early in the history of the Scout Movement, the founder, Robert Baden-Powell, ran the first residential adult leader training course for Scouters. At the completion of the course, the participants asked him if he could give them some token to indicate that they had been trained. He had not given this any thought, but on receiving the request he improvised by taking two little beads from a string of such beads he had; he threaded them on a bootlace, and hung them around the neck of each Scouter.

Ever since, each Scouter who has successfully completed the advanced training course receives two similar beads on a leather thong. Known as the Wood Badge beads, they are proudly worn by Scouters to indicate that they are continuing in a tradition handed down from Baden-Powell.

The conferring of wooden beads as a sign of recognition is an old Zulu tradition. We read of them first in the story of Charles Rawden Maclean, also known as John Ross, shipwrecked off the Zululand coast in 1825. He was one of the first white persons to meet the great Zulu king, Shaka. In his description of the Festival of the First Fruits, he wrote, "They now commenced ornamenting and decorating their persons with beads and brass ornaments. The most curious part of these decorations consisted of several rows of small pieces of wood... strung together and made into necklaces and bracelets. ... On enquiry we found that the Zulu warriors set great value on these apparently useless trifles and that they were orders of merit conferred by Shaka. Each row was the distinguishing mark of some great heroic deed, and the wearer had received them from Shaka's own hand. Later, when Maclean met the royal party, he observed that Dingane, Shaka's half-brother, was "dressed in the same manner as the king, but without so large a display of beads."

Robert Baden-Powell came across these beads 63 years later in 1888, when the British had defeated the Zulu nation at war and annexed

Zululand as a part of the British colonies. Dinizulu, the grand-nephew of Shaka, refused to accept the annexation and led the uSuthu tribe of the Zulus in rebellion.

B-P later wrote about the campaign to subdue and capture Dinizulu, "Eventually Dinizulu took refuge in his stronghold. I had been sent forward on a Scouting expedition into his stronghold. He nipped out as we got in. In his haste he left his necklace behind - a very long chain of little wooden beads. These beads now form the Wood Badge which Scouters win who go through the Training Course at Gilwell."

There can be no doubt that the beads of Dinizulu were identical to those beads that Maclean saw Shaka wearing. It is quite extraordinary that Baden-Powell should have chosen those beads as an award, to be "conferred by his own hand," without knowing that Shaka had used them in the same way.

Today, thousands of Zulu boys are Scouts. In 1987, Chief Minister Mangosuthu Buthelezi of KwaZulu was the quest of honor at a huge Scout rally. Chief Buthelezi's mother-inlaw, Princess Mahoho, was a daughter of Dinizulu. At the rally, the Chief Scout of South Africa, Garnet de la Hunt, took from around his neck a thong on which four Wood Badge beads were hung, and handed it to Chief Buthelezi, in a symbolic act of returning the beads to their rightful heir. How to Use Lightweight Stoves

A camp stove gives you a fast easy way to do your cooking. It produces heat just right for warming a small cup of soup or cooking a big pot of pasta. A stove won't blacken rocks or cooking gear or scorch the soil. With a stove you can camp where there is no firewood or where camp fires are prohibited. Stoves work equally well in deserts, high mountains and deep forests and are ideal for use in storms and on snow.

Many camp stoves burn commercial stove fuel or kerosene. Store these fuels in special metal bottles with lids that screw on tightly. Choose bright red bottles or mark them with colorful tape so there is no chance of mistaking them for water bottles. Butane and propane stoves burn gas from small cans called cartridges. Carry cartridges and fuel bottles in the outside pockets of your pack where gas fumes can't get near your food.

When you are ready to cook, place your stove on a level surface free of leaves, sticks and other burnable materials. A patch of bare ground or a flat rock is all you need. During winter campouts, put your stove on a piece of plywood about eight inches square. The plywood will hold your stove on top of the snow or ground and prevent the cold from chilling the stove. Different kinds of stoves burn different fuels and operate in different ways. Read your stove's instructions carefully and follow them exactly.

Bionic Beaver News

The Bionic Beavers (BB) are off to a great start becoming the great leaders that they see themselves becoming. The Beaver family, all representing the Deleon District, is led by Donnie Tegeler. Its members include BB#1, Thomas Gwosdz (pronounced: Gush), a former teacher turned to Amy and is the father of five. Themas is the Securit Master of Trace 264, shortcared by lawyer, is married to Amy and is the father of five. Thomas is the Scout Master of Troop 364, chartered by Victory Cathedral of Victoria. BB#2, Douglas Duran has been married to Kay for 26 years and a father of three sons and one daughter. Two of his boys are Eagle Scouts and the other is a Life Scout. Doug has been a Cub Master, Webelos Leader, Deleon District Pinewood Derby Chairman and is currently the Chartered Organization Representative for Martin Luther Lutheran Church's Troop 110 of Victoria. BB#3, Jeremy Lemke, is a Cubmaster and Webelos leader for Pack 62 in Victoria and committee member for Troop 110. He and his wife of 13 years have four boys, ranging in age from 11 years to 19 months. He's going to be involved in Scouting for a long long time. BB#4, David Sievers serves the Deleon District as a Unit Commissioner. He's also a Bear Den Leader for Pack 62. He has two daughters and two sons... both of whom are Scouts... one working toward his Eagle Rank and the other is a Bear, who can't wait to join his older brother. David has served on Camp K staff and has recently completed his Bachelors of Commissioners Science Degree. David has enjoyed two high adventure treks to Opile in Ely, Minnesota and the Florida Sea Base. BB#5, Cory

Shilinga, is a Wolf Den Leader for Pack 101 of Inez. He started his Scouting experience last year for his son, Spencer who loves the outdoors. Cory has been married to the BB#6, Cindy, for 10 years. They have an energetic 3 year old girl. Cindy is the Pack 101 Committee Chair, and neither of them would never have imagined being neck-deep in Scouting. They tell us that they enjoy it and wouldn't change a thing.

Thundering Buffalo News

Huddling together to block a chilly wind, newly formed Den 5 members quickly became acquainted. Den Chief (and now Troop Guide), Janice Maley, has worked hard to create a cohesive den/patrol.

Introducing the Buffalo Patrol; Don Bourgue was a Cub Master for 5 years and now serves as an Assistant Scout Master for Troop 3. Ruth Luna has been involved in Scouting for SR-1004 eight years, serving as Cub Master for Pack 232 and now as a Committee Member for Troop 87. Kelly White is probably the newest to Scouting serving as the Den 14 Wolf Leader in Pack 296. Molly Reynolds has extensive experience in Cub Scouting and now serves as a Committee Member of Corpus Christi Troop 87. Martin Chuimanatto has spent the past several years as the Venado District Chairman. He currently serves as the South Texas Council Vice President of the Learning for Life program.

Having children in the Scouting program has led each member of the newly formed Buffalo Patrol to share a love for Scouting. Welcome to Wood Badge Thundering Buffs!!!
